

We would like to introduce to you the Northwest Area Command Community Policing Council (NWCPC).

The mission of the NWCPC is to promote and maintain positive, respectful, supportive and cooperative interactions between members of the community and the Albuquerque Police Department. The NWCPC is composed of residents of northwest Albuquerque and representatives of the Albuquerque Police Department assigned to the Northwest Area Command.

Our monthly meetings are open to the public and provide an opportunity for community groups, residents, and business members to have concerns or questions heard. Any questions that cannot be answered immediately will be researched and answers provided in a timely manner. Specific recommendations may be made by the NWCPC to the Albuquerque Police Department.

Meetings are held at the Taylor Ranch Community Center, 4900 Kachina Street Northwest, Albuquerque, NM 87120. The meetings are held on the second Wednesday of each month. Meetings begin at 6:00 PM with an allotted time for community comments.

NWCPC meeting agendas will be posted at the APD Northwest Area Command website.

We look forward to working with you to make our community the best place possible.
